Global Population: The Hopes and Aspirations of Young People
Report

On the occasion of World Population Day, the Department of Sociology, Economics, and Geography in collaboration with the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) organized a guest lecture on 13 July 2026 on the theme "Global Population: The Hopes and Aspirations of Young People."

The lecture was delivered by Dr. Kannade M. K., who highlighted the impact of rapid population growth on society and sustainable development. She emphasized that the progress of society largely depends on the progress and empowerment of women. She also encouraged students to recognize the importance of education, gender equality, and youth participation in achieving sustainable development goals.

The programme was presided by the Principal, Prof. (Dr.) Barale S. I. In his presidential address, he shared his views on the aspirations and ambitions of young people, the impact of population growth, and the vital role of education in individual as well as national development. He motivated the students to become responsible citizens and contribute positively to society.

On this occasion, the Online Quiz on World Population Day was inaugurated by Principal Prof. (Dr.) Barale S. I.

The program was proposed by Dr. Namdev Adnike and introduced by Mr. Gavade A. T., Mr. Bhandare S.A. proposed vote of thanks.

Faculty members and students actively participated in the programme, making the event informative and successful.
