Newspaper Clipping Activity

Report

The Department of Sociology organized a Newspaper Clipping Activity under the subject Sociology of Health on 14 March 2026.

The main objective of this activity was to create awareness among students about various health-related issues in society and to encourage them to stay updated with current health trends through newspapers. Students actively participated in the activity by collecting newspaper clippings on topics such as public health, mental health, nutrition, sanitation, communicable diseases, and government health schemes.

A large number of students enthusiastically took part in the activity and presented their collected clippings. They also explained the social significance of the issues highlighted in the news, which helped in developing their analytical and critical thinking skills.

The activity was conducted under the valuable guidance of Principal Prof. (Dr.) A. C. Shinde. The program received support and cooperation from Dr. M. K. Kannade, Head of the Department of Sociology, along with Assistant Professors Prof. A. T. Gawade and Dr. V. Gheji.

Outcome of the Activity: The activity helped students to understand the sociological aspects of health and enhanced their awareness about contemporary health issues. It also improved their reading habits, analytical skills, and social sensitivity.
